Washington's only gridiron exhibition here yesterday, on Georgetown Field, behere yesterday, on Georgetown Field, be-tween Catholic University and Gallaudet, resulted in an easy victory for Catholic niversity by 28 to 0. once did Gallaudet threaten to score, when a long end run and a pretty forward pass in the third period brought the ball within 25 yards of Catholic U.'s goal line.

Gallaudet's team fought hard, but were simply up against a bunch which knew more football, had a better attack and one well grounded in the rudiments of the game. Catholic University's back field was very much in evidence throughout, end runs behind good interference, and offtackle plays netted handsome gains, the Butler brothers, Rogers and Shortley, carrying the ball by turns, Mercury far out-weighed the game little Gold and Black warriors, but Briariey was in the pink of condition and determined to close the senson with a victory.

Capt. Percy played a most brilliant game for the cadets, pulling off many long runs and proving himself a demon on the defense. "Maggie" Magruder, spinying his last game for Briariey, was splaying his last game for Briarley, was almost invincible once he got under way.

The entire Briarley team had been primed for this contest and showed true to form. Today's victory made five wins out of six starts and completed the most successful gridiron season the school has ever known. "Sid" Lodge had but fourteen men to report for the team in September, but out of this material a realwonderful little team has been devel-ed. From the standpoint of weight and age the big "B" players have been outclassed in every game played. The

HERALD'S EXPERTS TO REPORT BIG ARMY-NAVY FOOTBALL GAME.

Not even the big Harvard-Yale football game attracts Washingtonians as does the annual Army-Navy gridiron battle, which this season will be played on the Polo Grounds in New York tomorrow afternoon. Special trains will carry hundreds of society folk, members of the diplomatic corps, and those prominent in army and navy circles to Gotham.

The Washington Herald will, as usual, cover this game in a thorough and attractive manner, losing sight of no detail and presenting to the readers of this newspaper the best account of the titanic struggle.

John A. Dugan, The Herald's assistant sporting editor, famed as one of the best football officials in the District and a close student of the game, will witness the Army-Navy battle and write the contest from his angle. In addition to Mr. Dugan's story, Damon Runyon, the famous word painter, and other experts will contribute. Order from your newsdealer early.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 25.—Georgetown University crushed St. Louis University, 90 to 0, this afternoon. It was a massacre all the way through, St. Louis never having the ghost of a chance and never coming near scoring. When St. Louis did get the ball, she was forced to kick right away to keep from being pushed over the line for a safety. Johnny Gilroy and Fete Wall were the individual stars of the game, going over the line time after time for touchdowns and showing the 4,500 that braved the rain football tricks never before seen in Wall went around left end for a touch

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 25.-Never could any team give its captain any nore in the final game of the year and his final game for the Georgetown Blue and Gray than the Hilltoppers gave me and our supporters today against the St. Louis University team when we rolled up the largest total of the season, by romping away with this intersectional clash by 90 to 0.

Our team was at its best today and the pumping and mauling which Coach Albert Exendine has been driving into the team all season showed to its best in this battle. Our definite was at its height and the est the Mound City gridironers could do was one first town in the sixty minutes of play.

Petie Wall, Johnny Gilrey and Jackie Maloney stars of the buttle, although the entire eleven played a brilliant game. The ripping line attacks by our team were claimed by the experts her as the best witnessed in a long while. To Jackie Unioney in the running of the team goes most of the credit for victory as each time the St. Louis eleven would hold us Jackie would put through a forward pass or a shift which would gain the necessary ground.
